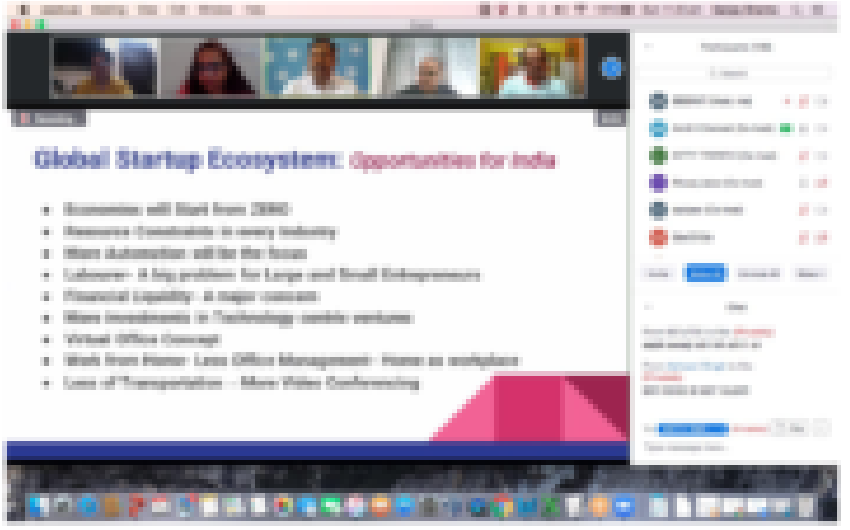
Report of Webinar on
"Impact of COVID-19 on Global Startup Ecosystem"

The global Covid-19 pandemic is exacting a terrible humanity toll and menacing the world economy. As our world is shaken in the most dramatic way imaginable, it is time for our global startup community to get clever, support, and learn from each other. Across industries, companies should act now to protect their employees and customers—and prepare now for the world beyond corona virus. Entrepreneurship is the only way to revive the economy that had a hard hit by this pandemic.

Thus, the webinar on "Impact of COVID-19 on Global Startup Ecosystem" was scheduled on 3rd May, 2020. The speakers of the webinar were Prof. Amit Kumar Dwivedi and Prof. Sanjeev Chaturvedi from Entrepreneurship Development Institute of India, Ahmedabad.


The webinar was inaugurated by Director (Engg.) BBDNIT, Prof. V.K Singh, by his kind words. Thereafter, the presentation was started by Prof. Amit in which he spoke about the great opportunities that will bloom across the nation for our youths in the form of new startups. Focus of this webinar was to make students realize the power of entrepreneurship and the magic that can be created by this. In our daily life we always do the work as entrepreneur but we are not aware of it. So the session was helpful to know the way to go ahead with the idea in our mind to create the things that will help the whole community and boost our economy as well.
